Thankfulness?

In the current situation we find our community, we are left feeling lonely and isolated from the world. Take heart my dear Windsor House Family, we are more than conquerors. In our lives we have seen a host of situations that we have endured and overcome. And this too shall pass. We will have a new story to tell, "...about 10 months or so of sitting around waiting to be allowed to see our family, go to work, dance at the local dance hall, hang out with friends or talk face to face with anyone..."

I understand it is hard to find anything to be thankful for right now. Let me help, you are here, safe, healthy, technology has evolved so much that we can talk to our loved ones safely, we can order our groceries and have them delivered, and families are coming closer and helping each other. We are learning to appreciate the small things and I get the pleasure to be here with you. I have learned to go outside the box of life before this virus and look for alternatives to the everyday activities. Our lives will be richer because of this time in the world. I know I have learned to speak sweeter to those around me, be more understanding of others circumstances, and I'm learning the virtue of waiting.

Please know our staff cares for you, and we hope to make the present circumstances better.

As soon as we can we will be making calls to begin the outdoor visits, again. Please be patient with us as we try to keep you safe and happy during this time.

We are going to get through this together. I welcome suggestions for activities from anyone. Call me, Angela Oller, the activity director, at 864-436-6016
